On Sept. 30 I reached Lebenth, after a hard journey, with the yanks and the Munsen. Our boat was named about 7 miles below Lebenth, and some of my friends were aboard. My house on the campfield was to be ready for us to occupy on our return, but this is the desert and it was not ready, for it had not been occupied for three years and was not in repair, very badly so. The entire interior of the house had to be复查ed. Painters were engaged to do it in Lebenth. Painters were supposed to do it in Lebenth. They were supposed to do it in Lebenth. It was not ready.
When I arrived I found that the painters had actually been two days on the house and the kitchen and the account was so greatly paid that I could not be accounted for this large. The attic was entirely full of other people's furniture, and the entire first floor was so well stock only the first half was vacuum. The front hall was bricked. The front hall and the rooms were to be painted soon. We thought we could not put just a single article of furniture in the empty house. We had to pack everything on the tables which had a very lonely in rural believe, so that our things get best. As a result, we have been slower getting settled, and have had a much longer time than we should.

soon after I arrived I was elected curator of the University Museum. The museum has very valuable materials, but nothing at all has been properly labelled and recorded. My first gift will be to get thanks printed and classify all the artifacts of the museum, remembering them and completing all possible records and classifying the materials we do.

I agree with you. I think it's best to start by gathering all the documents and analyzing them. Then we can decide on the next steps.
diction of the peace to the armies. It is hardly safe for a foreigner to move about in Boston, and less so for civilians. I am residing here and may remain here in my house for safety until conditions improve. Meanwhile, the carpenters are making boxes. There are nine boxes of specimens to forward as soon as the conditions in the province are improved. It is safe to go.

Oct. 17. Everything is held up temporarily because of the disturbed political conditions which threaten civil war. Our men had been unable to collect for a short time, but I hope to get them going soon.

The carpenters have been making boxes.

Oct. 30. The conditions are improving, and I am trying to find a way to get J.K. and J.J. to Tehran when they can come collecting.

I send to a radjewan to arrange with a friend who is coming to Tehran to bring the cinema to him with him.

Nov. 2. I have managed to get a passport for J.J. I am going to go to Semnan to go to Kerman to collect. I spent the evening preparing for this trip going over the relevant accounts.

Today we packed these and labelled them, or addressed them for Shanghai.

I called men to carry the goods to the River Shoe, but the arrangements late that the collectors will have to Start tomorrow morning. Nov. 4. To and from, departed Nov. 17-18. There had been civil war in Beginning with heavy cannonading and machine gun and rifle firing. One side is slightly fortified but the other side is still entrenched in the city. It is nearly impossible to get into heart of the city, we are glad we are out. Today a second aeroplane flew over the city several times, then departed. One Foreigner's house has been burnt and some other foreigners have moved out here into the University Campus. I did not dare let the collectors take a shotgun, for they would have gotten into trouble. They are trekking.
Dec. 14, 1932. Yang and I got back last night. They have collected just beyond Kuan Thien. Many birds, they have only secured a few birds and one for mountain rat, Mokep, etc. The mammals of this collection are numbered from 1010 to 1017. The collector did only fair work and I have had to remind them of many of the finer points to declare to make the specimens neater, points they have learnt and unlearnt several times. They seem to have two or three species of Mokes.

We spent the evening labelling and wrapping specimens.
Dec. 15, 1932. I spent several hours with X and Y labelling specimens, all but seven or eight of the mammals have skeletons corresponding with them. There are a total of 15 small mammals in the collection, and a few birds. The collectors were handicapped because they had no kitbag. When they are so armed, they will be able to get a much larger collection in the same length of time.

We have wrapped all the above mentioned specimens in five boxes, excepting a few that are too long. We will make two larger boxes to contain these.

Dec. 16. Reckoned accounts with X, Y and Z. They have declared some facts that look interesting, several small bottles.

Dec. 17. Reckoned and marked boxes for shipping.

I reckoned with X and Y. There was a grand wage due Z about six dollars. I expect a payment a minute, and I reckon wages, travel expenses.

By Jan. 1, 1932.
Dec. 31, 1932 - So and Sang are going to New York to spend the New Year holidays, after which they will return and go to work. I reckon and spend all accounts dated. They can not go down the roads because the armies of the different generals are adrift the哪里 and there are also plenty of brigands. They are taking a round-about route overland through Buliubing. A few days ago I severely strangled a muscle in my leg and have been laid up in bed, but expect to get up tomorrow. The President will not accept truce offer downstream as we cannot forward to specimens until peace

January 13.

Packaged Boy 17.

Received 3 boxes on February 6.

Boy 18. Contains fish from Kunia Atalante.

Fishman bringing all about 2 or 3.

I went to the city post office and interviewed the postal commissioner about sending specimens. He will cooperate and help all he can.

Jan 25. Finished labelling the boxes and sending out customs declarations.

I expect to meet the lot soon.

A letter came from Dr. Forbes at Yachin, saying that on account of the civil war it has been impossible to send the specimens to be collected and that they are probably in good condition. It looks as though civil war is now over and that specimens can be collected and forwarded all right.

Feb 25. On February 12 I mailed 17 boxes of specimens to the Smithsonian Institution, 8 of them a large box of wild birds skin and bone by a friend to H. A. T. & J. A. H. I have bought white cloth and have been making rain coats for the collectors. They will be needed next winter. Yesterday & bought.
two white panda planes. In is in good condition, and has nearly all the skeleton. The other was badly cut up in killing, but I bought it.

I am in touch with a hunting group that may bring me lots of wild animals in the future. I had a long talk with the leader today. He and Yang are due soon.

A friend has agreed to take my specimens to Shanghai and turn them over to the American Express Company.

Oct. 24. I went out with a student to teach him to net. His name is Peng, and he wants to collect for me regularly.

Mar. 3. Mr. Peng visited us, but got no sn “grand lady leg” I telegraphed to Shanghai for three balsam lanterns and two garden lanterns.

Mar. 6. I have been training a new netter, Mr. Yao. Today it was cold, but we caught almost no insects. I have had six insect or cricket vans made for future use. Glass bottle are expensive and will break.

Mar. 7. Mr. Yao caught a fine lot of small insects.

Mar. 8. Yesterday got very little, and I gave him some more instructions and paid him off.
Mar 11. The coldest day is collecting daily but not keen. The weather is too warm, and the shade, when collected, is a nuisance and dead well, and the ants are too busy in the ant hill, about an hour of two. He and I have not shipped yet although they are now overdue. I am writing to Annie about them.

Mar 12. I am numbering the white panda skeleton and skin 114, and the skin without is skeleton 114. I am calling carpenters to fix boxes in which to ship them to Shanghai. I am numbering a lot of insect 190. Box 19.

Mar 16. Filled box 16 with the two panda skins and box 17 with the panda skeleton. I will send these to a friend who goes down to Shanghai about May 1st.

She netted a huge number of small invertebrates today.

Mar 15. Have had two netters replacing today. They got a lot of moths but not a large variety.

Mar 25, 1933

Wang and Feng and the others have said that they are to send to Chicago.

Dr. Crooks wrote from Shanghai that he is returning all the goods he has.

A cold, rainy day.

We set out to little baby's funeral at 10 o'clock, getting passports for Yoko and the children. The collecting was by arrangement. I spent the whole evening getting the children ready and preparing the money.

Much to our surprise, we started on our collecting trip. This morning, I was and intervened General and Shir. No and secured a passport for Yoko and lane. They gave us a passport under the condition that it would not be taken away from them.

Today was rather cold, so the mother was kept.

Mar 21, I bought a young black bear and had him put in a shed to keep out of the wind. He is now made the mistake of cutting the grass out of the shed.

Apr 11, a few catching insects. Carpenter's have been making boxes for inspecting.

Apr 2, This Morning I went into the city and secured the Specimens from Macfarland. They were most desired for in a book that is just about to come out. One is a brown works, and another is a purple. I also got a book on his work.

May 14. The military are commandeering cattle so much that most of the farmers near by have been carried away, and the spring crops are vast to waste. I have had to prevent the settlers from and from losing the crop and the one who succeeded in catching night moths in a tin box called another box 2 in the quarter. May 9, 10-14. Weighed alt. 190 feet. On May 24, civil war still continues and our cattle have not dared to leave our yard during daytime but are catching night moths on our back.

May 25. Captured all 1792. Had markets about 12 dozen boxes of specimens. Officers may be awarded to the Smithsonian Institution. Has 1200 bees. Still prevented all but night moths at sea. Can't get about by day. They are in danger of being forced to join the army. They killed night moths.

June 10. The cattle are in the judge has these bees, and he has been home for 10 days.

Recently caught a black bear skin.
June 16. The skin of the small black bear I killed some time ago has almost been eaten up by vermin. I found also that the pine trees are on the black bear skin I bought recently. I'll have to open all the gates and look over the fencing and try every way to prevent the bears from reaching the Stationer's Institute in a useless condition. Probably the only hope is that old lot of grass. Mammals No. 1169 is a common hares that occurs at all stations. Zaychman's Collection. Mammals No. 1170-71 before secured by Yung Tony Kolda, the alligator hunt. He said he shot three in the Zaychman - german Bay, atau. The collectors.
No and yep are shut up by the military operations beyond Kuanashml and can not get out. There is a rumor that there is war between Lebanese and Libanons beyond Ratocheh.

July 10. I am definitely giving up the idea of going to Katanchen, partly because the money available this year is less than in previous years and partly because the roads to Katanchen are not safe. I hope to get off to Kueanchen within a few days. We are having fair success at night with patching.

July 11. I rode up to Ramgarh and the new collectors helping they will reach a high cell by Monday. I went into the city to investigate the possibility of getting a round trip to Kueanchen and on into the high mountains, there is a possibility that may work out well right.

July 12. Today I went across the city to the North Phe and on several miles to the headquarters of General Den, who controls the district beyond Kueanchen. When I went to collect, I got the permission to go by a round about way and the official document... necessary. I then was to see Mr. Doten, who is familiar with that region, but he was not at home. I gave the collectors lessons about how to handle gasoline lanterns for night collecting. About all I knew then in training was useless with the night lantern, and although the starlight at times was getting a good catch.

Today I mailed eight boxes of specimens all intact. One contained butterflies, insects, and the fruit dried and preserved.
